Di-Br-Zn-bonded polymeric networks of a hierarchical assembly of new pillar[5]arene building blocks. A novel bifunctional pillar[5]arene, 7,7'-(4,4'-dihydroxy-1,1'-biphenyl-4-yl)di-1-methylimidazol-2-ylidene, has been synthesized by the reaction of trans-1-bromo-4,4'-dihydroxy-1,1'-biphenyl with di-1-methylimidazole. With this bifunctional pillar[5]arene, a hierarchical assembly of networks was established. A mixture of ZnBr₂, 1,5-dibromopentane, and the bifunctional pillar[5]arene in toluene could generate the nanoscale pillar[5]arene network with highly crystallized domains. A similar result was achieved by adding a 1:1 mixture of ZnBr₂ and 1,4-dibromobutane to the mixture of the bifunctional pillar[5]arene and 1,5-dibromopentane. All these networks could be processed by thermal annealing to form the well-defined porous network with good mechanical and thermal stabilities. The hierarchical assembly of pillar[5]arenes would provide a new strategy to construct a new kind of polymeric networks.
